

Mental Healthcare Access for Children through Schools

Dr. Bernadeia Johnson

Chair of Minnesota Education and Equity Partnership, MnEEP
Assist. Professor of Educational Leadership, Minnesota State University, Mankato Former Superintendent, Minneapolis Public Schools, Minneapolis, MN Former Deputy Superintendent,
Memphis City Schools, Memphis, TN

Is anything more important than children's wellbeing?

Mental Health Services in MPS Today

- All MPS Schools
- Available to all students – regardless of ability to pay
- Mental health clinicians working alongside teachers
- Culturally and linguistically sustaining
- Mirrors, not windows

A hand is holding a piece of textured, light-colored paper. The word "IMPOSSIBLE" is written in black, hand-drawn capital letters across the center of the paper. A pencil is positioned vertically, cutting through the letter "I". The background is a blue wooden surface. In the top left, a spiral notebook is partially visible. In the top right, a white cup on a saucer is partially visible. A pair of scissors is visible at the bottom left, near the pencil.

IMPOSSIBLE

Engage Partners

- Health Providers
- Government Agencies
- Mental Health Collectives
- Culturally and linguistically Sustaining Outreach

School-Based Mental Health Services

- Professional Development for Schools
- Family/School Engagement
- Client Confidentiality

ROI

An illustration on a dark blue background. In the upper right, a large, glowing yellow lightbulb with a white filament is surrounded by radiating lines. Below it, a white horizontal line spans the width of the image. To the left of this line, a yellow horizontal bar is positioned. Below the white line, four stylized human figures in various colors (red, grey, green, blue) are standing on a dark green ground. Three wooden ladders are leaning against the ground, leading up towards the figures and the lightbulb. The overall scene suggests a journey or process leading to a goal or idea.

- Increased Attendance
- Decline in Suspensions
- Improved Academic Outcomes